Galway City & Salthill At the heart of Galway City is Eyre Square, from where the main central districts are within a 10-minute walk including the popular East Village around Forster Street and the quirky West End across the River Corrib, with the famous pedestrianised streets of the Latin Quarter nestled in-between. The city is brought alive by talented street performers, colourful shops, pubs, restaurants and cafés, all blended among many historical sites. The River Corrib and canals offer peaceful walks with attractions along the way such as Galway Cathedral, Fisheries Watchtower, the Spanish Arch and Galway City Museum which overlooks the Claddagh. The vibrant seaside area of Salthill, 1km west of the City Centre is home to the famous 2km long Promenade overlooking Galway Bay. Salthill has plenty of free parking with numerous attractions, pubs, restaurants and cafés.

Oileáin Árann (The Aran Islands) The unspoilt islands of Inis Mór / Árainn (Inishmore), Inis Meáin (Inishmaan) & Inis Oírr (Inisheer) are definitely worth a trip. Rossaveal Harbour (37km west of Galway) offers daily passenger sailings to all islands, while Galway Harbour has daily seasonal sailings to Inis Mór. Connemara Airport (30km west of Galway) offers scenic flights to all islands. Accommodation, tours and bike hire are available on the islands.

Inishbofin Island With fine sandy beaches, looped walks and quiet island roads, this beautiful island is well worth a visit and can be reached by ferry from Cleggan Pier (11km north west of Clifden). Accommodation, tours and bike hire are available on the island.

Connemara Situated west of Galway City, this largely rugged and mountainous region has Clifden Town at its heart, with two main routes to the area. The Wild Atlantic Way coastal route from Galway City takes you through South Connemara, including delightful locations like Spiddal, Ceantar na nOileán, Ionad Cultúrtha an Phiarsaigh Conamara – Pearse's Cottage, Roundstone and Derrigimlagh before reaching Clifden (125km from Galway). The N59 is a more direct inland route taking you through Oughterard and Maam Cross, where the stunning Twelve Pins and Maumturk Mountains come into view before reaching Clifden (77km from Galway). Pubs, restaurants, cafés and colourful shops are in abundance in Clifden. Venturing into North Connemara will bring you to some of the most iconic locations Connemara has to offer such as Connemara National Park, Kylemore Abbey and Killary Fjord. Bus tours of the region are available from Galway City.

South & East Galway On the way to the Burren & Cliffs of Moher is the impressive Dunguaire Castle overlooking the pretty fishing village of Kinvara (30km south of Galway). Further inland between Gort & Loughrea is the Lady Gregory & Yeats Heritage Trail where you can discover many historical sites, museums and gardens. The heritage town of Athenry is 23km east of Galway, while Portumna on the shores of Lough Derg has plenty to see and do.

The Burren & The Cliffs of Moher These iconic locations are easily accessible from Galway as a day trip. The start of The Burren is just a 1 hour drive from Galway, while the Cliffs of Moher is a 1½ hour drive. However, one of the best ways to experience them is with one of the many bus tours that operate from Galway City.
